

Blood, the Day of, in the festival of Attis, i. 268, 285

Blowing of Trumpets in the festival of Attis, i. 268

Blue Spring, the, at Syracuse, i. 213 n.¹

Boar, Attis killed by a, i. 264

Bocage of Normandy, rule as to the clipping of wool in the, ii. 134 «.³

Bodies of the dead, magical uses made of the, ii. 100 sqq. ; guarded against mutilation, 103 ; thought to be endowed with magical powers, 103, 104 sqq.

Bodrum in Cilicia, ruins of, i. 167

Boghaz-Keui, Hittite capital, excavations of H. Winckler at, i. 125 n. ; situation and remains, 128 sqq. ; the gods of, 128 sqq. ; rock-hewn sculptures at, 129 sqq.

Bohemia, Maypole or Midsummer-tree in, i. 250; feast of All Souls in, ii. 72 sqq.

Bolivia, the Chiriguanos Indians of, ii. 143 ».⁴, 145

Boloki, or Bangala, of the Upper Congo, their ceremonies at the new moon, ii. 143 ; attempt to deceive spirit of disease among the, 262

Bones of the dead used in rain-making ceremonies, i. 22 ; of dead kings carried off or destroyed by enemies, ii. 103 sqq.

---, fossil, source of myths about giants, i. 157 sqq.

Bonfire on St. John's Eve, dances round it, i. 245

Book of the Dead, ii. 13

Bor, the ancient Tyana, Hittite monument at, i. 122 n.¹

Borneo, custom of head-hunting in, i. 294 sqq. ' ; effeminate sorcerers in, ii. 253, 256

Bosanquet, Professor R. C., on the Four-handed Apollo, ii. 250 n.²

Bosnian; W., on serpent-worship, i. 67

Bouche, Abbe", on West African priestesses, i. 66 72.³, 69

Boys of living parents in ritual, ii. 236 sqq. ; dressed as girls to avert the Evil Eye, 260 ; marriage customs to ensure the birth of, 262

Brahman marriage in Southern India, bride dressed as a boy at, ii. 260

Brazil, the Apinagos Indians of, ii. i^sqq.

Brazilian Indians, their belief in the noxious influence of the moon on children, ii. 148

Bread, fast from, in mourning for Attis, i. 272

Breasted, Professor J. H., on the eye of Horus, ii. 12172.³; on Amenophis IV., 123 n.¹; on the Sed festival, 156 n.¹

Breath not to defile sacred flame, i. 191

Brethren of the Ploughed Fields (22ratus Arvalis), a Roman college of priests, ii. 239. See also Arval Brethren "Bride" of the Nile, ii. 38 ---and Bridegroom at Midsummer in Sweden, i. 251

Bridegroom disfigured in order to avert the evil eye, ii. 261

British Columbia, the Indians of, respect the animals and plants which they eat, ii. 44

Brittany, feast of All Souls in, ii. 69 ; belief as to warts and the moon in, 149

Bromo, volcano in Java, worshipped, i. 220 sqq.

Brother of a god, i. 51 ; dead elder, worshipped, ii. 175

Brothers and sisters, marriages of, in royal families, i. 4.4 ; in ancient Egypt, ii. 214 sqq. ; their intention to keep the property in the family, 215 sqq.

Brown, A. R., on the beliefs of the West Australian aborigines as to the causes of childbirth, i. 104 sqq.

Brown, Dr. George, on snakes as reincarnations of chiefs, i. 84

Bruges, feast of All Souls in, ii. 70

Brugsch, H., on Egyptian names for a year, ii. 26 n.¹; on the Sothic period, 37 n.; on the grave of Osiris at Philae, in ; on Isis as a personified corn-field, 117

Buddha and

Buddhism, ii. 159

Buddhism, spiritual declension of, i. 310 sqq.

Budge, Dr. E. A. Wallis, on goddess Net, i. 282 n. ; on an Egyptian funeral rite, ii. 15 n.²; on Isis, 115 sqq. ; on the nature of Osiris, 126 »²; on the solar theory of Osiris, 131 »³ ; on the historical reality of Osiris, 160 n.¹ ; on Khenti-Amenti, 198 *n.

Buduna tribe of West Australia, their beliefs as to the birth of children, i. 104 sqq.

Bugis of South Celebes, effeminate priests or sorcerers among the, ii. 253 sqq.

Bulgaria, marriage customs in, ii. 246

Bull as emblem of generative force, i. 123 ; worshipped by the Hittites, 123, 132 ; emblem of Hittite thunder-god, 134 sqq. ; Hittite god standing on a, 135 ; as emblem of a thunder-god, 136 ; as symbol of thunder and fertility, 163 sqq. ; the emblem of the Father God, 164 ; worshipped at Euyuk, 164 ; testicles of, used in rites of Cybele and Attis, 276 ; sacrificed at Egyptian funeral, ii. 15 ; white,